DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to under 37 CFR 1.71 for the following:

In paragraph [0006], the phrase "the width to height ration being about 1.1 to about 1.4 along a length defined by the body portion." is not clear as to the actual size of handle. In paragraph [0007], the phrase "The largest width defined by the body portion is positioned at a location about 37% of along the length from the tip." is not clear as to the position of the handle's largest width. In Paragraph [0011], the clauses "The ratio of the width 'w' to the height 'h' is about 1.1 to about 1.4 along a length, indicated by label 'L1' defined by the body portion 12. The width 'w' varies along the length L1 with the ratio of the largest to the smallest width preferably being between 1.3 to about 1.5." is not clear as to the actual size of the handle. Paragraph [0012] is not clear for the same reasons listed for the phrase in paragraph [0007]. Paragraphs [0008], [00013], and [00014] are not clear because the size of the handle has not been clearly defined and therefore the placement of both the pinch point and center of balance are not clearly defined. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

In paragraph [0006], the phrase “the width to height ration being about 1.1 to about 1.4 along a length defined by the body portion.” is not clear as to the actual size of handle. In paragraph [0007], the clause “The largest width defined by the body portion is positioned at a location about 37% of along the length from the tip.” is not clear as to the position of the handle’s largest width. In Paragraph [0011], the clauses “The ratio of the width ‘w’ to the height ‘h’ is about 1.1 to about 1.4 along a length, indicated by label ‘L1’ defined by the body portion 12. The width ‘w’ varies along the length L1 with the ratio of the largest to the smallest width preferably being between 1.3 to about 1.5.” is not clear as to the actual size of the handle. Paragraph [0012] is not clear for the same reasons listed for the phrase in paragraph [0007]. Paragraphs [0008], [0013], and [0014] are not clear because the size of the handle has not been clearly defined and therefore the placement of both the pinch point and center of balance are not clearly defined.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The independent claims 1, 7, and 13 all include indefinite terminology.

Regarding claim 1, the width to height ratio is not clearly defined because the ratio fails to limit the actual operable size of the handle.

Regarding claim 7, the position of the largest width is not clearly defined because the applicant fails to limit the operable size of the handle.

Regarding claim 13, the overall dimensions of the handle are not clearly defined and therefore the operable placement of the pinch point is not clearly defined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dansreau et al (U.S Design Patent No. 445,958) .

Dansreau does not disclose the specific ratios claimed, however, to the degree that the purpose of the handle structure in Dansreau is to provide an ergonomic structure, to vary a particular length, width, and height along the handle to fit appropriately in a particular size of hand would have been an obvious matter of choice in size variation to obtain a desired level of comfort. It is to be noted that applicant has not defined within the claims a particular size and shape of the handle, and a specific location defining the limits of length, width, and height. Keeping this in mind, applicant's claims provide wide variance that are rendered obvious by the prior art if not anticipated thereby in that the applicant's claimed parameters are not very limiting.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 1/5/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding Applicant's remarks regarding both the objections made to the specification and rejections based on 112 1st and 2nd paragraphs, because the size of the shaving unit is based on ratios a shaving unit could be made that was less ergonomic than desired and potentially could be unusable based on its size.

Regarding Applicant's remarks related to the examiners rejection of claims 1-19 based on Dansreau, to the degree the applicant does not disclose finite dimensions it does not appear unreasonable that the dimensions can be varied where the prior art shows an ergonomic handle.

If applicant disagrees with the Examiner's position, Applicant is reminded that he or she may appeal the decision with the board of appeals.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

9. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
